Edwardsville Named One of the Best Towns for Families

Glen Carbon, Illinois — In their yearly round-up of perfect places to raise kids, Family Circle magazine has named Edwardsville, Illinois as one of the 10 Best Towns for Families.

In the magazine's August 2010 edition, Edwardsville is touted with a 9 out of 10 great schools rating and is praised for being an ideal city for all generations.

The article also highlights their YMCA's new 116,000 square-foot recreational facility (of which more than half of the project's $10 million was raised by residents) that includes an indoor climbing wall, tennis courts, and roller skating/hockey rink.

In addition to what the city has to offer, the magazine also commended Edwardsville for giving back to the community, noting the volunteer work that the schools do with various organizations from Senior Citizens to the Humane Society.

Residents have always known Edwardsville is a great place to live – fortunately, this fabulous city is now being discovered by others.
